The NKAA Database provides information about African Americans in and from Kentucky.

The Notable Kentucky African Americans Database (NKAA) offers information about African Americans in and from Kentucky. It is a free online collection of entries about people, places, events, and communities.

Lots of new entries have been added since 2003, when the NKAA project was established as a website. Generous and steady contributions were received from many who used the website, encouraging us to develop NKAA into a database in 2007. Continued growth over the next decade led to the NKAA Database upgrade on an Omeka data management platform that provides a much more robust search experience.

Be a contributor! If there is something you think we need to know, send it to us by completing the suggestion form on the NKAA Database homepage at <https://nkaa.uky.edu/nkaa/>.
